Bowtie Analysis in Virtual Meetings

Process

- Sent template ahead of time to teams
- Split into small groups (4 or fewer) using breakout rooms
- One facilitator stayed in common area to help stragglers and others popped into break out rooms to observe and answer questions.

Lessons learned

- A template sent ahead of time to teams helps with organization and saving of data
- The whiteboard function in WebEx is difficult to save
- It is easier to moderate discussions remotely
- It is easier to collect final results remotely
- It is important to have enough moderators to manage all teams
